Plot Summary According to SparkNotes

The SparkNotes summary begins by setting the stage: a plane crash in the South Pacific leaves a group of boys—aged 6 to 12—abandoned on an uninhabited island. Without adults, the boys must decide how to survive and govern themselves. The story is divided into five distinct sections, each marked by a shift in the boys' social order and moral compass.

Section One: The Conch and the Order

Immediately after the crash, Ralph emerges as a natural leader, and he and Piggy discover a conch shell, which they use as a symbol of authority and a tool for summoning meetings. Ralph's election as chief is solidified by a democratic vote, reflecting the boys' initial desire for structure and rule.

Section Two: The Beast and Fear

As the boys settle into their new environment, a rumor of a "beast" spreads, creating a shared fear that threatens to undermine their fragile order. Jack, the head of the hunters, capitalizes on this fear to gain power, leading a faction that prioritizes hunting over governance.

Section Three: The Descent into Chaos

Jack's group severs ties with Ralph's leadership, establishing a new hierarchy based on strength and violence. Piggy's scientific mind is ignored, and the conch's authority erodes. The boys' once-innocent play transforms into brutal conflict.

Section Four: The Final Confrontation

The island's society collapses as the boys engage in violent clashes. The "Lord of the Flies," a pig's head on a stick, becomes a grotesque emblem of the boys' inner darkness. The novel's climax sees Simon, the most introspective boy, killed in a frenzied attack, symbolizing the triumph of savagery over reason.

Section Five: Rescue and Reflection

In the aftermath of the violence, a naval officer arrives to rescue the boys. The experience leaves the survivors scarred, and the novel ends with a haunting reflection on the thin veneer of civilization.
